These institutions and coaches invite UDL debaters to investigate admission to these schools and may have significant financial aid for debaters. We provide this as a service and encourage students to investigate these opportunities on their own. We do not endorse any of these schools or programs, but they have volunteered this information and seem very interested in expanding college opportunities for UDL students.

They are renewable each quarter. Quarterly renewal is dependent upon the student remaining active in Forensics. Students who receive a scholarship as a freshman are typically renewed as long as they are a committed forensics competition
We have more than 100 scholarships available for students. All have different criteria and are designed to meet different needs. Of course we offer a full range of Work study and grants for those in financial need.
Lower Columbia is a 2 year public institution which provides students a chance to obtain an excellent education and compete in an active and successful forensics program at a reasonable cost.

What kind of scholarships does your institution provide?
There are some private scholarships. You would have to talk to financial aid to get the long list.
Do you offer debate scholarships?
Yes, as many as possible.
Methodist will offer $400/ semester for each "recruited" freshman student. The school does offer $200/ semester for student who are not "recruited."
There are other benefits. Primarily, our program is highly novice-centered; meaning, new students can debate right at the beginning as opposed to becoming research mules for varsity.

SCHOLARSHIPS AND/OR FINANCIAL AID AVAILABLE FOR DEBATERS: If a student qualifies for the honors college, the stipend may be increased slightly for a debate scholarship. As there are no endowed debate scholarships, they are given only as funds are raised on a year to year basis. Renewal is contingent on student academic and debating performance as well as available funds. For Honors college a $250-$500 additional stipend for semester. For Work Study, up to $1,500 a semester, based on need. For regular debate scholarship, amount, usually no more than $250 per semester, varies on available funds, assuming funds are available for that year.
At this time, the UMSL Debate Program is in the process of converting from a departmentally based to a student run activity. The longterm ramifications of this move are uncertain, although it is most likely to be student run in 2001-2002.

Over 450 merit-based scholarships, ranging from $1,000 to $20,000, were awarded to the 1999 entering class. Our freshmen received approximately $41 million in financial aid, of which $25.7 million was in the form of scholarships. (Please note that there is no separate NYU application for merit scholarships. All students who are offered admission are automatically considered.) Nationwide, approximately 50 percent of all college students receive some form of financial aid. At NYU, 73 percent of all full-time undergraduates receive some form of aid. Most team members receive partial scholarships ranging from several hundred dollars for students just beginning to several thousand for those with significant experience. It is possible to improve on those totals for returning students with several years experience on the team.
Point Loma Nazarene University is a faith based institution that is committed to excellence in education and is affiliated with the Nazarene Church. Admissions counselors will be looking for students that fit the goals of the University. We look for students that embrace evangelical Christian beliefs, not necessarily just of the Nazarene Denomination. There are over 40 denominational beliefs represented in our student body, with the largest being Nazarene, less than a third as I recall. As a holiness church there are lifestyle rules and restrictions against such things as drinking, smoking, taking recreational drugs and participating in premarital or extra marital sex. While the current diversity of the University is not very strong, many of us are committed to improving that deficit. Additionally, Pt Loma is perhaps the most beautiful college campus in the country, located on the beaches and cliffs of San Diego overlooking the Pacific Ocean. Speech and Debate is almost as popular as surfing at Pt Loma, well not quite but gaining. Our speech program is very active in Parliamentary Debate and the standard individual events. We welcome students desiring to know more about our program.

The William Pitt Debating Union is a student organization involved in a wide range of debating activities, including two-person intercollegiate policy debate, international parliamentary debate, and various forms of public debate. One of the oldest organizations of its kind in the nation, the Union is directly affiliated with the Department of Communication at the University of Pittsburgh. The director of the WPDU teaches courses in the communication department, and the assistant coaches pursue graduate degrees in the department of communication. The undergraduate student members of the WPDU typically have disparate academic concentrations and backgrounds, although many choose to major in communication. The bedrock philosophy of the William Pitt Debating Union is that argument can educate as well as emancipate. By providing for students a forum to sharpen their critical thinking skills, deepen their understanding of contemporary political issues, and hone their abilities as actors in the public realm, the Union actualizes its educational mission. By spurring robust, inclusive debate and discussion in the public community, the Union performs its politically emancipatory function, serving as a catalyst for reasoned public dialogue on key issues facing society. Much of the Union's energy in pursuing these tasks comes from a team culture which places a premium on group solidarity and cooperation. Such cooperation is vital to cultivation of a pedagogically rich learning environment, competitive success in intercollegiate contests, and to political mobilization in defense of open public argument. In their activities, members of the Union are expected not only to contribute in a dynamic and cooperative way to these goals, but to consistently meet the highest standards of integrity in research, teamwork and advocacy. Located in the heart of the University's academic environment, the Debating Union occupies the eastern wing on the eleventh floor of the Cathedral of Learning. Loaded with plenty of work space, computer terminals, photocopying and other amenities, the Debating Union has become a cozy second home for its members. Hillman Library, across the street from the Cathedral, houses the University's more than six-million volume collection. Researching in the Oakland area, debaters also have access to the twenty four specialty libraries, the famous Carnegie public library (a stone's throw from the cathedral), the University of Pittsburgh's law school library, Carnegie Mellon University's library, and Duquesne University's library. Altogether, this adds up to one of the finest library systems anywhere. Technologically the University is at the cutting edge of the computer age, with seven laboratories which include full service logistical support. The Union pays for virtually all expenses associated with participation in intercollegiate debate, including supplies, photocopying, transportation, housing and meals at tournaments. In addition, the Union offers tuition scholarships to well qualified candidates, and serves as a placement clearinghouse helping students find opportunities to generate additional income through debate-related jobs. The University of Pittsburgh also makes available an array of both need and merit based financial aid; more than 70% of Pitt students receive some kind of support. WPDU scholarships are renewable contingent on strong academic performance, team commitment, and personal progress. The purpose of the WPDU scholarships is to reward the balanced student who shows outstanding performance in both academic and extracurricular activities. Because of its medium size and excellent location, the WPDU is able to offer a robust assortment of travel opportunities to students. The WPDU's long standing tradition of successful competition at the highest levels of the national circuit continued last year, with the Panthers making frequent appearances in the elimination rounds at major tournaments, including novice nationals. Located in NDT District VII, Pittsburgh is in close proximity to the most well-attended novice tournaments in the nation, and thus can offer a challenging schedule to the beginning intercollegiate debater. In addition to these intercollegiate tournament debating opportunities, students in the WPDU can work toward the goal of international travel in parliamentary competition. Because extensive debate travel can be time-intensive, all members of the WPDU carrying a full travel schedule are required to maintain a 3.0 grade-point average and are required to effectively balance course work and debate obligations. The Union is not just an academic center for debate and discussion; it embraces the challenge of serving as a catalyst of constructive public dialogue outside the walls of the university as well. To this end, the team develops and implements "idea-logical" initiatives, designed to free up space for wide-open public discussion through the sponsoring of public debates, the application of political and media pressure for increased institutional transparency, and the stimulation of dialogue on pressing issues facing local, regional, and national communities. Interested students have the opportunity of focusing on these projects by investing their energy in the Activist Debate Network (ADN), the branch of the Union devoted to this task of bolstering public dialogue. The mission of ADN is to go beyond traditional debate pedagogy to emphasize debaters' roles as actors in and beyond contest rounds, and aim to make debate practice more relevant in the public sphere. The aim is to build up experience and develop expertise in public advocacy; to refine and amplify the public voices of students, and bring students into public conversations with interlocutors inside and outside the university. ADN activities are designed to maximize participation, and the ADN tends to draw students who have other obligations that prevent them from traveling on long weekends and have limited previous debate experience. The Union's debating activities spill over national boundaries. In December, 1996, the team traveled to Cork, Ireland for the World Debating Championships. The Union regularly hosts foreign national teams on their debating tours of the United States, having recently entertained the British national team in both 1994 and 1995. In previous years, the WPDU has served as host to the Russian, Irish, and Australian national teams. These initiatives build on a long tradition of international debating at Pitt, started with Director Robert Newman's remarkable exchange series with the University of West Indies in the 1950s and 60s. In addition to these direct efforts, the WPDU also encourages its members to apply for international tours organized by the Speech Communication Association's Committee on International Discussion and Debate. Former assistant coach Pete Bsumek was selected to the national U.S. team for the 1991 tour of Great Britain, and current assistant coach Maxwell Schnurer conducted in the parliamentary format, participants are required to display effective audience debating skills, in addition to the crisp critical reasoning and sharp organizational skills vital for success in the NDT ranks. The international component of debating activities at the WPDU also helps to stimulate debate interest in other parts of the world and enhance the reputation of the University of Pittsburgh worldwide. With a full-time director and numerous graduate teaching assistants working with debate, the William Pitt Debating Union boasts one of the largest and most experienced coaching staffs anywhere in the country. While coaches are not expected to cut cards, they are expected to take a hands on approach to argument innovation and development. The unique and rare combination of vibrant academic interests and a strong background at the highest level of college debate place this group at the cutting edge of contemporary debate theory and practice. The Union's coaching alums have continued coaching at the highest levels of college debate, and include current directors at North Carolina, James Madison, Northern Illinois, Northern Iowa, George Mason, Clarion, and Georgia. Members of the current staff have coached and taught previously at prestigious universities such as Wake Forest, Northwestern, Michigan, Vermont, Georgetown and American.
